DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-39 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-31 of copending Application No. 10/029,014. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of the copending application when read in light of the specification clearly encompass and render obvious the claims of the instant application.

The copending application differs from the present application by the use of a co-axial arrangement of the electrodes and membranes. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the shape of the copending application invention to obtain the sequential arrangement as claimed in the instant application, because such change to shape has been held to be within the purview of the ordinary artisan.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2, 4-8, 12-13, 15-19, 34-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bourat, U.S. Patent 3,870,617.

Bourat discloses the claimed method and apparatus for the electrophoretic separation comprising a first electrode in a first electrode zone, a second electrode in a second electrode zone, wherein the electrodes are separated to generate an electric field upon the application of a selected electric potential between the electrodes, a plurality of membranes disposed in the electric field area to form at least a first and second interstitial volumes feeding samples through the compartment and obtaining the transport of constituents through the membranes to obtain a concentrated product in the first volume (see claims 1-2 and figures 1-5 and examples 1-5). The reference further discloses the same types of membranes (see columns 5 and 8).

Therefore, since the Bourat patent discloses each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3, 9-11, 14-33, 38 and 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bourat as applied to claims above, and further in view of Ogle, WO 00/13776.

The Bourat patent does not disclose the means adapted for removing any heat generated in the apparatus. The Ogle patent is cited to teach the routine means used in the art to remove heat (see page 6).

The Bourat patent further does not disclose the use of electrophoresis membranes, such as the claimed polyacrylamide having the defined pore sizes claimed. The Ogle patent is cited to teach that such selection is conventionally made based upon the materials being separated (see pages 7-8).

Consequently, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the Bourat patent with the teachings of the Ogle patent, because the Ogle patent teaches that such modification is routinely accomplished by the ordinary artisan based upon the materials being separated and other process conditions.

The Bourat patent does not disclose the use of a third and forth electrode with the further membranes to form a secondary electrophoresis separator. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Bourat patent, because such modification to pluralize or increase in number has been well settled to be within the purview of the ordinary artisan based upon either faster and/or purer results.
